Thomas Hay, first tenor and leader of the Raymond Male Quartet, who is at present sojourning in New Hampshire, took part in the annual concert given by the summer residents of Center Sandwich. Mr. Hay gave two solos in fine voice, "Bessie, the Maid o' Dundee" and "A Dream of Paradise."

The horses attached to Jos. T. Lovejoy's two-horse team, driven by Hiram Clark, became frightened at an automobile last Friday afternoon, just as the driver had stepped to the ground to unload the cart. The team bolted down Main street, out-distancing the auto, which was going in the same direction and which had passed them when they became frightened. As the pair crossed the railroad bridge, the hub of the hind wheel splintered the end of the wooden partition which separates the sidewalk from the road. The team was finally brought up by each horse going a different side of one of the maple trees just in front of C. L. White's. The cart and harness were somewhat damaged but the horses were uninjured.

The public schools will open one week from next Tuesday.

Charles M. Hemenway spent Saturday afternoon and Sunday with friends at Pride's Crossing.

Obituary.

CHARLES H. MARLAND.

Charles H. Marland died very suddenly of heart disease at his home on Andover street, Monday forenoon at 11.45, at the age of 60 years.

The deceased was born in Andover, April 5, 1843, and with the exception of a few years spent in Milton Mills, N. H., has always lived in the town. He attended Phillips Academy, and at the age of 19 years, he enlisted in the 44th Mass. Infantry, and saw considerable service in North Carolina.

January 17, 1867, he married Miss Laura E. Lowd at Milton Mills, N. H. He came to Ballardvale in November, 1874, and during the past 29 years he has served the village as postmaster and station agent.

Mr. Marland always took an active part in the Congregational church, having been their deacon for quite a number of years. He was a member of St. Matthews Lodge, A. F. and A. M., having joined shortly after he became of age, and was one of its oldest members. Through his many positions he became intimately connected with the people and at the time of his death he was probably the best known man in this vicinity His many acts of kindness and cheer endeared him to a large circle of friends. Besides a widow he leaves two sons, C. N. Marland and Harry F. Marland.

The funeral was held from his late home, Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and was conducted by Rev. Mr. Brooks of the Christ church, Andover. Miss Carter of Andover, sang "Abide With Me" and "Nearer My God to Thee," in a very inspiring and touching manner. The flowers were very beautiful, and besides many individual floral offerings included a wreath from the New England R. R. Agents' Association, a fine bank of flowers from the Boston & Maine R. R. Station Agents' Association and a handsome floral emblem of the order by St. Matthew's Lodge, A. F. and A. M. Howell F. Wilson, Joseph Shaw, Charles Greene and Thomas Matthews acted as pall bearers.

The officers and members of St. Matthew's Lodge attended the service and conducted masonic rites at the grave. Interment took place in the Episcopal cemetery, Andover.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for their many tokens of remembrance and their many expressions of sympathy during our late recent bereavement and grief.

Signed,
MRS. C. H. MARLAND AND FAMILY.

BASEBALL

Ballardvales, 6; Crescents, 5.

Ballardvale won their thirteenth game of the season, by defeating the Crescents of Lowell, on the Plains Saturday afternoon by a score of 6 to 5.

The game was close and exciting throughout and was won by Ballardvale in the ninth inning as follows: With the score standing 5 to 4 against them, Rooney led off with a hit to the infield and scored on a three base hit by Dearborn to right field. Dearborn scored the winning run on a long fly by Drisko to right field.

For the visitors W. Hickey played a star game. He pitched good ball although hit hard at times. He fielded his position to perfection, accepting ten chances without an error and led his side at the bat. Duffey played well in the out field.

For the home team Drisko pitched as usual, keeping the hits well scattered. He was well supported by Rooney who, besides catching a fine game, led his side at the bat, making three hits including a home run. Bonner gave the finest exhibition of outfielding ever seen on the Plains.

TRAINING BABY.

Regularity in the nap, the bath, and feeding of an infant lays the foundation for an obedient, punctual child when it is older. Parents do not realize that baby has a temper, will and intelligence long before it can express itself.

As a mother trains her infant in its cradle to obedience, so may she expect the older child to develop.

If a child cries do not go to its side at once, but if it continues to wail rest assured there is some cause.

Turn it over on the other side and if this does not produce the desired result carefully search all over its clothing to see if a pin is sticking or if a button presses into its tender skin. After you have given it a drink of water, and are sure the cover is not too heavy or that the light does not shine in its eyes—go away and soon the little one will drop off to sleep.

Perhaps for the first three or four times the crying will not cease at once but as soon as baby realizes that it will not receive any further attention until his nap hour is over, he drops into a sleep.

Do not force a child to walk or crawl before it is strong enough. At the time when its limbs are ready to bear the weight of the body, the child will make the effort itself.

Nothing is more harmful than to permit a child to taste candy or cake or anything else the family happens to be eating or drinking.

Heavy embroideries, long skirts and clumsy flannels tend to weaken and tire infants. Keep the baby's abdomen warm, not omitting a pure woolen band, and woolen or silk and woolen socks are preferable to lisle or cotton, even in summer, but be sure they are thin and light in quality.—Pictorial Review.

If black is becoming to the traveler, a handsome black net is a most satisfactory thing for the general utility evening gown, and it will stand much crushing and hard usage. Magpie frocks, as the Parisian dub black and white costumes, are also excellent for the purpose under discussion, and if black and white is not becoming or sufficiently youthful, soft light gray or champagne color is a nice choice.

The all-white castume, without which no wardrobe is complete at present, is a charming item of the travelers' outfit, but soils readily, and when one is traveling rapidly there is no chance of cleaning it. When expense need not be considered, a good lace gown either in white, cream or some light tint, made with two bodices, one decollete, the other high-necked, is perhaps the ideal expression of the evening frock that will meet many needs and will be handsome and modish without being conspicuously striking.

FRANK LESLIE'S POPULAR MONTHLY FOR SEPTEMBER.

Besides keeping up its summer record of nine short stories and a serial, Leslie's Monthly for September has a varied assortment of more serious articles. The first and most attractive of them is a little essay called "The Heart of a Man," which interprets a delightful series of drawings of children by E. B. Knipe. There are some heroic tales of the cod fisheries of the banks more thrilling than any fiction, and a vivid account of the war between the cattle and sheep on the Western ranges.

Among the short stories, that by J. J. Bell, the author of 'Wee Mcgreegor,' is a delightful love story, and the fishing trip of a Few Real Boys, particularly amusing. There is a story by Jack London, who wrote the "Call of the Wild," a romance of the savage Northwest, and one by Justus Miles Forman of a more sophisticated kind of sentiment. There is a striking study of a conflict between a manufacturer, a trust and a walking delegate that comes just now at a particularly appropriate time, and also a number of other stories and articles and some clever skits in Marginala and in Men, Women and Books.

We were some lesser lights, riding in a private car to which were hitched the rolling palace of two mighty magnates. They were Mr. Chauncey M. Depew and his host. We were invited back, and for a considerable time sat at the feet of greatness; and Mr. Depew, he told stories.

One of them related to a visit that he and Cornelius Vanderbilt, the second, once paid to Cleveland, O.

They were taken in charge by a certain Mr. R., who was rich, at least in his own estimation. They were taken for a drive around the city. Mr. R. pointed out many a valuable lot and more valuable block of buildings, with remarks to the same general effect:

"You see that lot?"

"Yes."

"Well, that used to belong to me. I bought it for so much, and sold it for so much more, making a cool —— thousand."

"You see that block of buildings?"

"Yes."

"Well, that is mine. I bought the ground for so much. The buildings cost me so much. That poperty is now worth an even —— thousand. I'm doing pretty well for a poor fellow."

"Now, if there is anything that Mr. Vanderbilt dislikes it is a 'bad break,'" said Mr. Depew, "but I finally got tired, and determined to make one at whatever cost. We drove into that splendid street, Euclid avenue. I looked up and down it and said:

"Why, this is a fine street, Mr. R. What do you call it?"

"'This? Why, this is Euclid avenue. They say it's the finest street in the country, if not in the world.'

"'Well, sir, I have traveled quite a good deal, and I must confess that this is one of the finest streets I ever saw. Who was this Mr. Euclid? Was he prominently identified with the early history of the city.'

"Mr. R. seemed embarrassed. He hemmed and hawed, but finally owned up: 'I declare, Mr. Depew, I don't know. I have lived in Cleveland 40 years or more, but I never heard anything about the man. I have no idea who he was.'

"Then," continued Mr. Depew, Vanderbilt leaned back and laughed until I thought he'd fall out of the carriage. When we were alone he told me, confidentially, that for once he had enjoyed a thoroughly bad break"—Comfort.

FASHION DECREES.

Little girls are wearing full-length white stockings.

The red frock which always in evidance at the French watering places, has been very popular at our own seaside resorts.

Lingerie is more dainty than ever, and the fine hand-work on some of the more costly garments adds much to their attractiveness.

Navy blue serge and white serge are favorites for boating and yachting costumes. This season linen and mohair were also used for this purpose.

The sailor collar appears on the outing dress for autumn, but it differs from that of last season, and is cut on the lines of the drooping shoulder cape collar.—New Idea Magazine.

SIMPLE FISHER FOLK

THE NEWFOUNDLANDERS ARE EASILY IMPOSED UPON.

A Pathetic and Tragic Incident That Illustrates the Attitude of the "Upper" Classes—The Hardy Courage of the Outporters.

"St. John's, N. F., lives by its fisheries; nothing worth while is produced there, but, according to the unsophisticated stranger, there is a noisy and vituperative wrangling over the wealth that comes down from the coasts," says a writer in the World's Work. "There are some few factories, to be sure, but they are too ingeniously managed by half. For instance, a certain brand of tobacco, made at St. John's and exclusively consumed by fishermen, is sold in the French island of St. Pierre for half what it costs the Newfoundland 'bay noddie,' and the manufacturers pay $15,000 yearly to the proprietor of a rival concern to induce him to keep his plant shut down. At St. John's, too, is the aristocracy of the colony—merchants, middlemen, lawyers, physicians, officeholders, tricky and abusive politicians and colonial knights (the visitor may observe on a signboard above a little corner store, 'Sir Thomas Morburn, Grocer. Cheap Teas'). There is neither sympathy nor mercy for the fisherman here, though there is a most enthusiastic reception for what he takes from the sea. He is regarded as legitimate prey, is most marvelously lied to before election and abused, ridiculed and reviled afterward. But through it all he preserves a humble faith in all those set in authority over him.'

"A doctor of the outports—the incident is related because, though it may appear an extraordinary case, it yet aptly indicates what has for years been the attitude of the 'upper' classes toward the fishermen, without whom Newfoundland would lie waste and deserted, the shame of the fair earth—a doctor of the outports was once called to a little white cottage where three children lay sick of diphtheria. He was the family physician—that is to say, the fisherman paid him so much by the year for medical attendance. But the injection of antitoxin is a 'surgical operation' and therefore not provided for by the annual fee.

"'This,' said the doctor, 'will cost you $2 an injection, John.'

"'Oh, iss, zur;' was the ready reply. 'I'll pay you, zur. Go on, zur.'

"'But you know my rule, John—no pay, no work. I can't break it for you, you know, or I'd have to break it for half the coast.'

"'Oh, aye! 'Tis all right. I wants un cured. I'll pay you when I sells me fish.'

"'But you know my rule, John—cash down.'

"The fisherman had but $4, no more. Nor could he obtain any more, though the doctor gave him ample time. I am sure that he loved his children dearly, but, unfortunately, he had no more than $4, and there was no other doctor for fifty miles up and down the coast.

"'Four dollars,' said the doctor, 'two children. Which ones shall it be, John?'

"Which ones? Why, of course, after all, the doctor had himself to make the choice. John couldn't. So the doctor chose the 'handiest' ones. The other one died.

"'Well,' said John, unresentfully, the day after the funeral, 'I s'pose a doctor have a right t' be paid for what he does. But,' much puzzled, ''tis kind o' queer!'

"The Newfoundland outporters are hardy, courageous, boldly adventurous, simple lived, God fearing, warm hearted—a physically splendid race of men. Cowards and weaklings have for four hundred years been the unfit of the place; they occur, of course, in the best regulated families, but do not long survive, for exposure kills off the weaklings, and in the midst of many dangers the cowards lose their lives. Children learn to sail a punt at six or seven years old, and at every age they are encouraged to play at the highly dangerous game (called copying) of prancing about on floating ice. The skill acquired in leaping from one sinking block to another would make the trumpeted river driver look like a blundering child. As men, they know their punts as intimately as a cowboy knows his horse, and they will say of their boats in a gale, 'I thought she'd not live through it t'day,' with the same unconcern that a cowboy might say of his horse, 'He nearly throwed me that time.' The race is truly hardy and courageous. It was John Butt, with a broken collar bone and a split forehead to show for it, who survived two wild, snowy nights and a day on a twenty foot ice pan, over which for many hours broke great seas, heavy with jagged fragments of ice, and it was a reckless Green bay skipper who let the wind blow the masts out of his schooner rather than reef her, because he had been told that his crew thought him 'nervous'—a mad sort of courage, to be sure, but proof positive for all time that he was no coward."

Already There.

She—I heard you complimenting her upon her girlish appearance. What did she say?

He—She said, "Ah, but I'm sure I shall look much older when I'm forty."

She—Huh! She means she'll look much older when she admits she is forty.—Philadelphia Press.

GEN. MILES' LITTLE JOKE.

Although it is generally understood that General Mile's sense of honor is not sufficiently developed even to enable him to hold a position on Punch, a story is told of him which would indicate that under provocation he can indulge in a sportive practical joke, says the New York Tribune.

"The incident," said an army man, "is accepted by some of us as an explanation of some of the friction between General Miles and his colleagues which years of association have developed. As you know, many of the historis jealousies, cabals and feuds have been founded on circumstances in themselves insignificant.

"A number of years ago Miles, who is a big man physically, and another wellknown general, clean shaven and of small stature, were detailed to report to a Western garrison. As the incident which I am about to relate has never been forgiven by the small general, who still bridles at suggestion to the indignity he suffered, I shall omit his name.

"To this companion of Miles was assigned the duty of arranging for berths on the Pullman car. The two generals then were friends, but each took pleasure in getting the better of the other, all with apparent good nature. Whether there was conscious or unconscious jealousy at the bottom of their amiable conflicts I do not know.

"On this Western trip the small general selected of the only two available berths the lower for himself. When Miles found that he had to climb to the top bunk he protested, saying that inasmuch as he was by far the bigger of the two he should have had the lower berth. But the other general was inflexible and Miles had to climb laboriously into the unwelcome port.

"Down below the triumphant general chuckled, while the notes from the upper berth, where Miles was trying to adjust himself for the night's sleep, could by no means have been mistaken for a vesper service.

"By the midnight the Pullman's diapason of snores indicated peace. Suddenly an uproar disturbed the sleepers. The trouble was between a very insistant woman who had boarded the train at a town in western Pennsylvania and the porter.

"General Miles pushed aside the curtains. 'Madam,' he roared, 'what in heaven's name is the matter?'

"'Matter!' she replied. 'I arranged by telegraph for a berth in this car and the porter tells me that two army men have got accommodations and that I must sit up.'

"'That's all right, madam,' replied Miles. 'I can arrange matters for you. My little boy is occupying the berth under me, and you can turn in with him.'

"The excited woman calmed down, expressed her thanks and proceeded to make ready for the night. At this juncture the little general was awakened.

"'There now, little boy,' said the woman, detecting signs of uneasiness in the darkned berth, 'don't make any noise; your father told me to sleep here.'

"'What does this mean?' exclaimed the now throughly aroused and wrathful little general.

"The woman repeated her instructions

"'Madam,' came the voice from the lower berth, 'I am General X—of the United States army, and I command you instantly—'

"He never finished his stern order. With a shriek the woman snatched her belongings and fled to some remote part of the train. But while the rest of the awakened and convulsed occupants enjoyed the performance, there ensued a colloquy between that general and Miles that was suggestive of a field of carnage. The little man could not be mollified. He swore vendetta against Miles, and the enmity has increased with years."

DYSENTERY CURED WITHOUT THE AID OF A DOCTOR.

"I am just up from a hard spell of the flux," (dysentery) says Mr. T. A. Pinner, a well known merchant of Drummond, Tenn. "I used one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and was cured without having a doctor. I consider it the best cholera medicine in the world." There is no need of employing a doctor when this remedy is used, for no doctor can prescribe a better medicine for bowel complaint in any form either for children or adults. It never fails and is pleasant to take. For sale by E. M. & W. A. Allen.

HISTORICAL ANDOVER

Number 121

OUR GOVERNORS' SOCIETY.

So much interest was shown in my effort to collect descendants of May Flower passengers now resident in Andover, that I conclude those who happen to be in line from three of our early Colonial governors may like to see what a corporation we could form if all eligible to join this somewhat select association of "Governor's Descendants" were gathered together. When a cousin of mine started for London with the old "Ancient and Honorable," my note of his being a lineal descendant from a charter member of the old band, added greatly to the pleasure of the trip. Some boy (Who knows but a girl!) who will run for the office of Governor of Massachusetts, in the future, may possibly be a descendant of the old leaders of public opinion.

With Thomas Dudley, who came with Winthrop, was Simon Bradstreet who married his daughter Anne. You can read all about the character and work of Simon Bradstreet in Abbott or in Bailey's "Andover," the latter book having a good index of reference. Mercy Dudley, another daughter, married Rev. John Woodbridge, at the time when he was a Boston school teacher. Later he came to Andover, with his brother-in-law, Bradstreet. From Thomas Dudley we therefore have two lines of descent here. Thomas was said to have descended really from a Sutton stepson to the Dudley family, but he held the name of Dudley, whatever his blood. He was from Northamptonshire, steward awhile of the House of Lincoln. He was born in 1576, and died in 1653, serving several times as governor, once, through some political pull, defeating Winthrop himself. His son Joseph later became governor, and his son Samuel, a clergyman, married Gov. Winthrop's daughter, Mary. The feuds between Bradstreet and Sutton in the second generation here no doubt were fiercer because they were near of kin. I did not discover the name of Dorothy, mother of these gifted children. [2]Dudley Bradstreet and wife Ann (perhaps a Hunt, a Widow Price when she married Dudley), [3]Margaret Bradstreet was head of the Andover line of [4]Job Tyler whom she married, and from her the estates left the Bradstreet line here. After her death, the family moved to Georgetown. [4]Job, [4]Abraham, [5]Parker Tyler returned to die in North Andover in 1856, but I do not know yet much about the "moderns" of North Andover old lines. [5]William Tyler, another son of Abraham, born 1775, died in 1867 at 92, and was grandfather of the late Mrs. George Cole, whose family reside here. [5]Bradstreet Tyler, [6]Mary born 1779, married John Day of Bradford, [7]Myra J. Day born 1822, was the mother of the elder children, while her niece, [8]Emma A. Kimball, is the surviving widow and mother of the younger children of the late Henry Arnold Bodwell of Andover. [4]Dudley, [3]Thomas of Haverhill, [6]Thomas, [7]Eben Tyler, we won for a valuable line, with two mothers, Mary M. M. Wardwell, and the present widow, whose two children staid longest with us, Elizabeth, wife of Myron E. Gutterson, still resident.

The descendants of Mercy Dudley are more numerous, but did not return very soon to Andover after 1647, when John Woodbridge went to England, and was driven back to Newbury for nonconformity. The mother died in 1691 at 70, he died in 1695. [2]Ben, also a clergyman, married Mary, daughter of Rev. John Ward of Haverhill, [3]Benjamin, born 1680, died 1738, married Mary Osgood of Salem of an Andover line, who owned the estate which included the John B. Jenkins farm. The [4]Benjamin (in line in America), born 1718, somehow got mixed up in the "Woodbridge Genealogy" with his younger brother, [4]Samuel, who disappeared in a most unaccountable manner. The trouble arose perhaps from the death of the compiler of the Andover sections before his work was done, and the want of care on the part of Mr. Mitchell from insufficient data. The fact is brought out in probate, that poor Ben was "Non-Comp" and never married, and Samuel settled in Somersworth, N. H., where he married two wives, Patience Locke and Abra Twombly, from whom the Woodbridge lines of Andover and Watertown and Reading all descend. Mr. Nathaniel Hill, a descendant, loaned me the ledger used by Samuel at Somersworth and it contains much of value, also the return to Andover in 1766, where he continued his business as a tailor. County and town records all verify this new arrangement of Woodbridge groups. Dudley of Salem, who married Dorcas March, sent descendants here. Benjamina, widow of Capt. Nathaniel Lovejoy, was one, also the late Willard Phillips, sometime a resident of North Andover. John Phillips Lovejoy, only son of Capt. Lovejoy, married a younger sister of the widow Benjamina, but after the death of the step-mother, I could find no trace of this couple.

The family of George Stevens and Mr. Benjamin Osgood Gray and Charles Woodbridge, with the children of Ira Osgood Gray, are among the descendants. The family of the late Reuben Jones, of John B. Abbott, of Benjamin F. Woodbridge, Albert W. and Perley Woodbridge of the 1902 tax list, and probably others could be found, that have returned to us.

Deputy-Governor Samuel Symonds was quite a sturdy character in his locality, as was the Bradstreet leader here. His wife was left to care for the large farm he held in Ipswich and a most amusing tale of the first "strike" is found in Essex Sessions when one morning after prayers when Madam Symonds gave orders for the field work of the day, three young apprentices came forward and refused to work without increased wages. They were hauled before the Court, and the pitiful tale came out of how they were, with others, stolen from their homes upon the coast and brought away to work upon our plantations, the whole home village gathered upon the beach weeping but helpless. These Downing boys got their time and Madam lost her apprentices. Samuel Symonds married for his second wife, Martha Reade, a widow of Samuel Eppes and sister of one of the wives of Gov. Winthrop, who began at seventeen and secured four.

Priscilla, born 1648, married Thomas Baker of Ipswich, son of John Baker and Sarah Gould. Her sister, Ruth Symonds, married Rev. John Emerson, first pastor of Gloucester. John Emerson's daughter, [3]Mary, born 1687, married Samuel Phillips, the Salem goldsmith and his children came to Andover. Besides the family who founded the schools, [4]Mary Phillips married Capt. [5]George Abbott, so we have in her branch (all the Phillips stock we have left) the children of John B. Abbott (from two Governors), Homer Foster representing one line, Mrs. N. F. Flint and the elders, John Lovejoy Abbott, Miss Mary Ballard, the children of the late Samuel Valpey of whom Mrs. Plato Eames and son Harry, and her nephew, Ezra Valpey and two children still are with us. There are two sections of the Baker lines. [3]Priscilla Baker and Isaac Appleton, [4]Isaac, [5]Francis, [6]Rev. Jesse, [7]Mary Means Appleton, born 1801, wife of the late John Aiken, [8]Mary E. Aiken, wife of our resident, George Ripley and her children. The line from [3]Thomas Baker and Mary Capen is through [4]Thomas and Sarah (Wade), [5]Dr. Symonds Baker, born 1736, who married the daughter of Rev. Christopher Sargent in Methuen, lost his wife and children, and made his home here by a marriage with Lydia Gray (already related in the "Gray" sketches) From him we keep the line of [6]Symonds Eppes Baker. [7]David, [8]George F. Baker and children, who holds the farm his great grandfather bought of Thomas Abbott's heirs about the time of the Revolution. Another line from Dr. Baker is through his son Henry who married Debora Ames, represented by Miss Deborah Frye and the children of the late Henry W. Abbott. Debora Baker, who married Daniel Poor, has descendants in the Vale, while the daughter of Arthur Bean, Mrs. Wm. Findlay, is from Lucy Baker. No doubt more could be added, especially families like that of the late Judge Morton, who descended from Governors Winslow, Bradford and Prence, whose ancestry has not been fully traced, but my list has been gathered from notes at hand in regular research and is not exhaustive.

DANGEROUS FUN.

London—The deathroll in the Alps this season has been enormous. Already more than 300 accidents have been recorded resulting in the loss of 150 lives. The general cause of disaster has been the exceptionally unfavorable weather combined with unprecedented false economy. Case after case has been due to climbing without guides in disregard of the weather and snow conditions, while several deaths have been due to the foolish and increasing practice of climbing attired in fashionable costumes such as lace petticoats and patent leather shoes.

An example of such a fatal fall was that of Miss Gilletan, who was climbing Mt. Pilatus attired in a smart spring toilette. There was also the case of Mme. Petiadoff, whose fatal fall on Mont Seposoir was directly due to wearing smart clothes and a thin pair of shoes.

One of the most marvelous escapes was that of Gerald Fitzgerald on Monte Rosa. He was passing along a dangerous edge roped between the two guides. Fitzgerald and the younger guide, Alner, fell, but the rope held and young Alner succeeded in clinging to a rock. He saved himself and reaching a hut telephoned for help. Fitzgerald having broken his right leg. Unable to help himself he remained for seven hours suspended in mid-air over a precipice of 10,500 ft., thanks to the indomitable courage of old Alner, who stood motionless there seven hours with his legs propped against a boulder supporting himself at the end of the rope till help arrived.

HAY FEVER FOR 27 YEARS

Well Known New England Woman Cured by Hyomei — Cure Was Lasting.

The thousands of discouraged people who dread summer's approach because they think that hay fever cannot be avoided, will read with interest and gratitude the following statement from Helen F. Williams of Mansfield, Mass.

"For 26 years, from the month of August until heavy frost, I have been afflicted with hay fever, growing worse and worse each year, and of late years I was unable to attend to my work during that period.

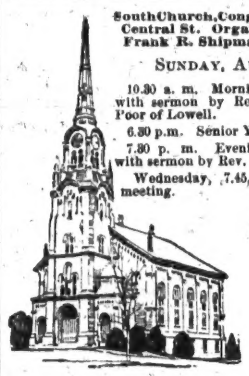

"Last summer I fortunately gave Hyomei a trial and I am happy to say that it entirely cured me and I have had no return of the affliction since."

The letter is one of many that have come to the proprietors of Hyomei, and the results following this treatment have been so wonderful that it is proposed at the annual convention of hay fever sufferers to recommend Hyomei to all who are susceptible to this disease.

Hyomei is a treatment for hay fever that combines the latest discoveries of science and the best of common sense. Knowing that a change of climate was the only way in which relief could be obtained, the evolution of Hyomei naturally resulted. By breathing its germ killing and healing balsams, anyone can have at any moment of the day, either in their home, the office or the factory, a climate like that of the White Mountains or other health resorts, where hay fever is unknown.

E. M. & W. A. Allen agree to refund the money to any hay fever sufferer who uses Hyomei if it does not give satisfaction.

Double Tracks, Lawrence to Andover.

The acquirement of a long turn-out on Main street some time ago, was considered by many citizens to be the first move on the part of the Boston & Northern for a double track between Lawrence and Andover. That move was modified somewhat at a later date by the further suggestion on the part of the railroad officials that they be allowed to bring their tracks to the square. Such a move means an expensive job of widening on the upper end of North Main street and all parties are halting a little at the proposition. Now comes the Company's move in Lawrence in the shape of a petition for two tracks on South Broadway to the Andover line, and the scheme seems thus to be entirely unfolded.

We hope the Andover selectmen will continue to move very slowly in this matter. We have always believed that the broad question of accommodating all the public by means of these poor man's carriages put a severe obligation upon the individual town. That obligation has led Andover to relinquish to the use of the street railway many things that were dear to many of her citizens. Events are slowly but surely justifying the past doings of the street railway companies in town, and events may be foreshadowed to justify still further changes, but the shadows are yet somewhat dim.

The citizens of Andover have been generous and even magnanimous with the street railway interests, and for the most part they, in return, have dealt fairly with Andover. But there are several inconveniences to which the Andover public is submitting, which should be removed before any further concessions of any kind are made by the town. Chief of them are the transfer privileges and the extension of the single fare limit. The announcement made this week affects almost entirely the people of North Andover, and does little to relieve the Andover situation. But its fair treatment of the North Andover public makes Andover's case even more just and more worthy of favorable action. The changes desired mean but little to the road for they effect very few people in Andover, but they mean much to those few people.

When these demands are favorably acted upon or at least fully reported upon by the railroad people, the town will undoubtedly be ready for the consideration of the further schemes of the railroad. Until then we believe it to be the duty of the town to let the double track scheme severely alone.

Saving "Time" for Future Use.

Can recreation be stored up and laid away for future use at a more convenient time, the same as money? Some people think it can, many think it cannot.

The closing summer brings to mind this question in all its freshness. All around us are notable examples of the operation of the two sides of this theory. On the one hand the man who has never had a vacation and now after a half century of untiring activity he finds himself tired and weary, and wanting something but he doesn't know what. He, has been waiting all these years until he had his "pile" and then he could take a long vacation. He finds he has saved his pile but he hasn't saved his vacation, for he doesn't know how to take a vacation nor how to spend it if he took it. He can't recreate because that art has never been learned. He is like the great engine that has gone on for years without repairs and improvements, and finally goes to the junk shop for want of the daily, monthly, and yearly revamping which it needed to keep up to the top notch.

There is no part of this world's activity that does not require an occasional overhauling and man is more needy than all other parts. The vacation, if but for a day, takes him out of his own narrowness; it brings other interests into his life; it makes him broader and less selfish.

One day's fishing for a busy man will make the break that is often needed to rest the nerves and stir the liver to new activity. A week at the seashore will drive away a dozen doctor's visits and fill a system with ozone that will often help to ripe old age.

No, we don't believe that fun in any form can be saved for future consumption. It must be the seasoning used in daily, monthly, yearly life, or it will fail to accomplish what its creation intended.

Editorial Cinders.

It has been a long time since the condition of the vegetable crops was so unsatisfactory at this time of year. There are some people who are picking corn and others whose crops of cucumbers and tomatoes are really coming to fruitage, but there are many others who are obliged to mark the word "failure" against all of their early crops. It has taken a good farmer to make things grow this year.

The transfer to the square from Wilson's Corner is the first result of our crusade for transfers and extended service in Andover street cars. There is a lot more that we are after and some of the desired changes are bound to come.

MORE RURAL FREE DELIVERY

Postmaster Bliss Receives Authority from Postmaster General Payne to Extend Route.

The Andover Rural Free Delivery is to be extended and one carrier is to be added. The route now being used is revised and a new one covering 18 square miles and serving 145 houses and 609 people has been added. The route is 20 1-2 miles long.

The following are the orders received by Postmaster Bliss:

The Postmaster, Andover,
Essex County, Mass.:

Sir:—You are hereby authorized to extend Rural Free Delivery from your office, to commence Thursday, October 1st, 1903, with one additional carrier. The route to be followed, as laid down by Special Agent Rogers, in a report dated March 12th 1903, and which will be known as Route No. 2, including the rearrangement of Route No. 1, will be as follows: * * *"

Then is given a revision of Route No. 1, and also the new route which is as follows: "Beginning at the Post Office in Andover, said county, said state, the carrier will go

North and Northeast to Carmel Hill,	1-2	miles
Thence northeast to Haverhill street,	3-4	"
Thence west and southwest to Frye Village,	3-4	"

Thence northeast over Railroad street to Post office,	1	"
	20 1-2	miles

Area covered, 18 square miles; number of houses on route, 145; population served, 609.

If you don't get a transfer at Wilson's Corner to Elm Square, tell us about it.

Chairman Smith of the Selectmen, has been advised by Pres. Sullivan that the fare to Andover Square from Salem should be the same as the Lawrence transfer station—20 cents. This is one of the things the Townsman has been looking for, but notwithstanding this authoritative announcement, some of the conductors still refuse to give the necessary transfer.

The Townsman would be glad of any information when the conductors refuses hereafter. Take the car and conductor's number and report to this office. We will forward such information to the proper officials.

Andover Young Man Injured.

While testing machinery at the plant of the General Electric Company in Lynn, last Monday, Frank Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Hill, was struck by a wooden arm, which was revolving at a high rate of speed. He was struck three times, the worst blow being on his cheek, and inflicting a painful gash. He received two other blows, one on the arm and the other on the leg, causing those members to swell very painfully.

Mr. Hill was taken to a Lynn hospital and after his injuries were dressed he was taken to his home in West Parish. He is now able to be about but it will be some time before he will be entirely recovered from the effects of the accident.

Broke Record at Duck Pins.

A record came to Andover this week in bowling, when Miss Bertha Higgins at Old Orchard shewed the frequenters of the bowling alleys a thing or two in that line. The Old Orchard Mirror contains the following notice:

"At the Cleaves alleys everyone seems to be out for a record and Thursday was an exciting time for the high score enthusiast, the duck tallies for both ladies and gentlemen having been boosted up to a high figure. Miss Bertha Higgins of Andover, rolled 80 on ducks, capturing the record by the wide margin of 12 pins. In all probability Miss Higgins name will appear on the record for 1903."

Surprise Party.

Last Friday evening, Andrew Collins was pleasantly surprised at his home by a number of his friends. He was sent on an errand by his mother, who was in the plot, and when he returned, found about twenty of his young friends assembled in the house. During the evening different games were played and music was much enjoyed by the company. Refreshments of ice cream, cake and candy were served and Master Collins was presented with a fine umbrella. The party was planned by Miss Elsie Eyers and Miss Florence Collins. Friends from Andover and Ballardvale were present.

BIGGER THAN EVER.

Twenty-Eighth Annual Rochester, N. H., Fair, Sept. 22 to 25, 1903.

Rochester fair this year will be a mammoth display of cattle, sheep, swine, poultry and farm products; also women's art and needlework. The purses and premiums will amount to $15,000. Over $3,000 has been spent on improvements about the grounds this season. It will be the greatest of all shows for the money. Reduced rates are made on all railroads, and electric cars run to the grounds.

CARS RUN TOO FAST

Elm Street Residents Complain at the Rate of Speed of Haverhill and Andover Cars.

For some time past complaints have been numerous by the residents of Elm street at the rate of speed at which the Haverhill and Andover cars traverse that street. Starting at Washington avenue there is a continuous down grade until the square is reached and this gives the cars additional momentum, until at the junction of Summer and Elm, they are runing often times nearly thirty miles an hour. To say nothing of the dust that the cars raise, the high speed is a distinct menace to travel.

In consequence of the complaints, B. Frank Smith, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, had an interview with the railroad officials and as a result, a sign was placed on Elm street near Summer, cautioning the motormen to run slowly. Little notice, however, is paid to this by the motormen, who run by as if "full speed ahead" were the sign and complaints are again coming in.

Chairman Smith has again called the attention of the railroad authorities to the state of affairs and hopes to have a "stop" sign placed near the junction of Summer and Elm streets.

FIELD DAY AND OUTING.

Members of Andover Grange Enjoy a Tour of Inspection Through Andover Farms.

The annual outing and field day of Andover Grange was scheduled for Tuesday, but rain compelled a postponement until the following day.

At ten o'clock a considerable number of Grangers with their families and friends started from Grange hall for the round of West Parish farms.

The first stop was at the farm of Robert Watson where his herd of Holsteins was inspected. The pleasant grove at Haggetts, presided over by past master Charles L. Bailey, was the next point visited. Then came the market garden of Selectman Boutwell, just beyond Haggetts station. A halt was made at farm of the Hardy brothers in the Bailey district, and then we pushed on to the pleasant home of Edward W. Boutwell, the present master of the Grange. It was high noon and our appetites were by this time whetted keen, so the ladies of the party got their heads and lunch boxes together and began to prepare the feast while the men, headed by Selectman Samuel H. Boutwell proceeded to inspect the gardens on the farm of the latter. On returning to the house we joined hands with the ladies and proceed in true granger fashion to demolish the heaps of good things that confronted us. Some in the house and many in the yard ate and drank until—well, you know how it is yourself, if you have ever been there. Mr. and Mrs. Boutwell proved royal entertainers.

An after dinner tramp through Mr. Boutwell's garden land was then made after which the pilgrimage was resumed and we brought up at the great stock farm of C. I. Hood. We were shown about the barns and the many interesting features of scientific cattle raising were explained. Mr. Hood devotes himself very largely to the breeding of Jersey cattle at present.

Leaving the Hood farm we were driven to the summer home of Selectman B. F. Smith by the shores of Haggetts. Here we rested again and enjoyed the delightful surroundings. Mr. Smith's daughter Susannah, acted as hostess, and we were served with ice cream and cake. To see those grangers eat, no one would have supposed that they had demolished a big dinner only a short time before.

Leaving Mr. Smith's, we journeyed toward the Center, for the evening sun was getting low. We stopped at the large cow barn of Peter D. Smith, just at milking time. Then on to the market gardens of Edward W. Burtt. After inspecting the acres of growing vegetables and the pens of Chester pigs of all sizes, there was a general round up at Grange hall, and a supper; yes, a supper, served by Edward W. Burtt.

In the evening a special meeting of the Grange was held at which past master's jewels were presented to Fred M. Hill and Samuel H. Bailey.

GRAND FIELD DAY.

Massachusetts Division of the Sons of Veterans to Hold Outing at Point of Pines.

The Massachusetts Division of the Sons of Veterans, U. S. A., have made plans for a grand Field Day, to be held at the Point of Pines on Labor Day, Monday, September 7. Special rates from all camps in the division will be arranged and a general invitation has been extended to the G. A. R. and to members and friends of all affiliated societies.

There is to be a specially arranged program including baseball games, contestants to be members of the different camps, musical exercises, and band concerts by the Lynn Cadet Band. A regular fish dinner will be served at Barnes' cafe, for 50 cents, and to those who wish to take their own lunches, the grove will afford an excellent picnic ground.

The Point of Pines is very accessible to most all the camps in Massachusetts and especially to those around Andover. It is also a very beautiful resort to those who wish to spend a pleasant day, as the grounds themselves are finely laid out and equipped, and there are also high class performances given, twice a day.

The athletic field, the baseball diamond, with new comfortable bleachers, and the dance hall, will be thrown open free to all until seven o'clock. At night a beautiful electrical display will be given and a salute to the colors will be an important feature of the program.

It is hoped to have a large delegation from Andover.

Runaway Horse.

The milk wagon belonging to Fred Swanton was badly damaged last evening. Virgil Swanton, his son, who was driving, had left the cart to carry some milk into a house on Main street, when the horse became frightened of an electric car and dashed up the street. In front of Chapman's new house the horse turned in towards the sidewalk, the hub of the wheel striking a telephone pole, while a large maple tree finally brought him to a standstill.

The wagon was badly smashed but curiously enough the horse escaped any serious injury.

The Young Andovers Win the Series against the Elms.

The Young Andovers have won the series with the Elms by defeating the latter in a ten inning game last Saturday by a score of 6 to 5. The batteries were Donovan and Malone for the Young Andovers and Foster and Hardy for the Elms. This is the second game the Young Andovers have won against the Elms and this makes them the champion junior amateur team of Andover.

The game was interesting and close throughout and the victory was not won until the last man was out. The Elms scored three runs in the first and one more in the fifth. Their opponents made one in the fourth, two in the sixth, and tied the score in the seventh. In the eighth, another run came in for the Elms. In the last half of the ninth, M. Malone came to the bat for the Young Andovers, and pushed an easy one to Clark. The latter, in attempting to throw Malone out at first struck him on the head, the ball rolling off by first and Malone going to second, from which place he promptly stole third. Moynihan, the next man up, made a clean single, scoring Malone and again tieing the score.

In the tenth three strike-outs and a zero were put down against the Elms. A zero was all but chalked up for the Young Andover half, for there were two out and three men on bases. M. Malone, however, was again a hoo-doo for the Elms, as he tapped a sky-scraper to the pitcher, which the latter dropped, allowing Hickey on third to score, thus winning the game.

The honors in the game were about equal, each side having six hits; Foster having 19 strike-outs and Donovan 14. The best batting was done by T. Malone for the Y. A.'s and Crockett and Lawson for the Elms, and in fielding, Lawson and M. Malone excelled.

The score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
Y. A.	0	0	0	1	0	2	1	0	1	1	—6
Elms	3	0	0	0	1	0	0	1	0	0	—5

Umpires—Hitchcock and Collins.

Tewksbury Doctors 13; Unions 6.

The Unions were defeated in rather a one sided contest by the Tewksbury Doctors last Saturday by a score of 13 to 6 on the Tewksbury grounds.

Hilton pitched a good game for the loosers but was poorly supported by his team.

Association Football.

The season for football is again drawing near and preparations are being made in the Merrimack Valley for a lively season. The league this year will be of a different nature and will embrace, besides the Buntings of Lowell, Ward Five of Lawrence, Methuen and Andover, the strong Lynn team and the Boston Rovers. It is also expected that the Quincy club will join, in which case a very strong and easily worked league would be in the field.

Last year the Andover team lost the championship through questionable work on the part of the league officials and it was doubtful for a long time whether the club would enter the league again. The composition of the league this year and its officers would seem to indicate that fair play will be dealt out and there seems to be no reason why the local club should not be able to hold its own in the competitions.

The officers of the league are: President, George W. Johnston; vice-president, Edward Nelson; secretary, Walter Teale; financial secretary, J. McCarty; treasurer, J. W. Hogan.

A meeting of the league will be held September 5, when clubs wishing to join will be given a final opportunity.

AT TOP OF MT. WASHINGTON

Story of the Ascent of the Famous Mountain Interestingly Told by a Well Known Writer.

Mt. Washington, the grandest peak in the Presidential range, and in the whole East as well, the name itself brings up the memory of the one who stood head and shoulders above the other leaders of a great nation's destiny as does this rugged, seared, weather-beaten summit above the other mountains of the range, which includes the Adams, Clay, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Jackson, Franklin, Clinton and Webster.

But to the visitor there comes, to linger always, a memory of something more than a name as he scales the precipitous sides or stands upon the top. Mt. Washington has a personality: one immediately feels its impress as the different phases of the mountain appear one after the other. No matter how often one visits it, or even gazes at the up-reared head from the many pleasure resorts within a radius of twenty or thirty miles, there is ever a new aspect, a continual change in the cloud-shrouded cone or sun-kissed ravines and slopes. Now threatening and terrible in its majesty, again smiling and alluring, it dominates the landscape of this Northern New Hampshire region.

To the scribe has come the pleasure of only one ascent, that under unfavorable circumstances, but there remains the anticipation of others to follow, if the Gods permit, when it is to be hoped the elements will bear a more cheerful countenance, and gaze with a more becoming mien upon the undertaking. If the Telegram readers will permit, it is the writer's intention, well meaning, at least, to describe in a plain meager manner his experiences and impressions during an ascent of Mt. Washington via Tuckerman's Ravine, a night at the Summit House and descent the next morning, over the Crawford Bridle path, eight miles and a half of it, to the Crawford House.

Our party was composed of five, Prof. W. H. Pickering of the Harvard observatory at Cambridge, his son, W. T. Pickering, R. S. Loring of Somerville, H. P. Comerals of Dedham, and the scribe. Starting at 7 o'clock on Saturday morning, July 25, from the Eagle Mountain house at Jackson, we drove a distance of about a dozen miles over the Glen road to Glen Ellis Falls, where the road became impassable, having been washed away by a big storm in June, the noisy, little Glen Ellis river going on rampage at that time. A gang of men was busily at work making repairs, but it was a week later before the road through to the Glen house was open for travel with safety. Disembarking at the Falls, our party assumed their loads, light ones you may be sure, and decided to inspect the Falls, which were well worth the few moments' walk. The water leaps in a narrow stream through a cleft in the rocks to fall a distance of 40 or 50 feet to the ledge below, throwing off a beautiful spray during its descent. As the water comes over the edge of the precipice, the slant of the rocks gives it an angle which makes the aspect all the more attractive. We viewed the Falls at different points, then returned to the road and began the walk to the beginning of the path up Tuckerman's Ravine.

A gentle little shower had no effect upon our spirits although we began to doubt the possibilities of getting a view. Our team had returned and there was nothing remaining for us to do but go ahead or walk the distance back to Jackson. So ahead we went, and after one false move, having passed the entrance to the path, we finally were set aright and began our climb.

Both Prof. Pickering and Mr. Comerals had made the ascent by Tuckerman's in years past, but so long ago that the recollection of the exact location of the trail was somewhat hazy in their minds. We learned during a visit with Frank H. Burt, the editor and publisher of "Among the Clouds," printed on the summit of Mt. Washington, that it was 17 years ago when Prof. Pickering made the last previous ascent of the mountain. Mr. Burt was known to the writer, who met him at the Phillips Andover Alumni dinner in June, at which time Mr. Burt acted as official strenographer, but the meeting at this time was unexpected and pleasant.

A paragraph from the "Among the Clouds," of July 27, two days after our trip, may be of interest, and is quoted herewith:

"Professor Pickering was often on Mount Washington in the early years of the Appalachian Mountain club of which his brother, Professor E. C. Pickering, director of the Harvard observatory, was the first president. He made many important explorations and is the author of a guide to the Presidential Range and the compiler of a valuable list of 'Distant Points Visible from Mount Washington,' published in Appalachia. An examination of the files of 'Among the Clouds' brought out the interesting coincidence that on Friday, July 25, 1879, just twenty-four years ago and within a day of the same day of the week, Professor Pickering, in company with W. S. Fennolosa, explored the Gulf of Slides and discovered several fine water falls, which he named 'Appalachian Cascades.' His own account of the climb, giving what was probably the first published description of the cascades, was printed in this paper, July 30, 1879. He had no idea that his visit of Saturday was the celebration of an anniversary, until his attention was called to an article bearing his initials 'W. H. P.' His last visit to Mount Washington was during the Appalachian field meeting in 1886, at which time he went down the Jefferson Ravine with Mr. Fennolosa. Professor Pickering built and was for several years in charge of the Harvard College Observatory at Arequipa, Peru, 8000 feet above the sea."

Let us get back to the present, however. Our way led to the lovely Crystal Cascade, crossing the stream below the Falls. Both this Fall and the Glen Ellis are in danger of spoliation by the woodman's axe unless steps are taken to purchase land in the immediate vicinity so that the natural beauty of the surroundings may be preserved. A few hundred dollars only are all that is needed to save the most beautiful falls in the White mountains. Mr. Burt was the scribe's authority in this, as he has been in correspondence with the lumber company which owns all the land about this region.

We had left the road at ten minutes past ten and for the first couple of miles our progress was not rapid owing to the steep grade and rough walking through the woods. At last we came to Hermit Lake, and stopped for a moment at the Appalachian shelter nearby where we left our names. We had passed one lone climber on his way down the mountain and had been informed by him that the clouds were coming down into the Ravine over the Head Wall. Sure enough! A short walk brought us into the open in view of the precipitous Head Wall over which trickles the "Fall of a Thousand Streams." To our left was Boott's Spur, down whose steep side many slides have left their scars.

The high walls on either side of the Ravine shut out the sunlight except in the early part of the day, and the snow which collects at the foot of the Head Wall remains nine months out of twelve, and sometimes longer. As the snow melts in the spring, a miniature glacier is formed several hundred feet in length and twenty or more feet in width, beneath which the stream runs. This cannot withstand the mid-summer heat, however, and has fallen at times with a resultant loss of life. As we advanced we saw the arch of which considerable still remained. We lunched beside it and dug out a little snow for July snowballs.

The path, beyond this point, led beside one of the many streams almost straight up the Head Wall, until near the top on its right, then crossed to the other side. The three younger members of the party were led a bit out of our way by this blind crossing, and were obliged to slide back a short distance. This portion of the journey is the most ticklish and difficult, for one gazes down for hundreds of feet into the Ravine, while a fine view is unfolded beyond the Ravine's enclosing walls.

Surmounting the Head Wall, the Cone is reached, and an area of moss upon which the climber is apt to walk cautiously with a feeling that holes may yawn beneath. A strong wind and driving fog met us as we passed up to the Cone, which is strewn with boulders everywhere. The use of our sweaters or coats was found agreeable as we passed to the left of the "Painted Trail," the straight path to the top, and skirted the base of the Cone to get the wind at our backs to assist in the steep climb before us.

Only able to see a few feet in advance, we kept on the lookout for the cairns, (piles of rocks), that eventually directed us to the summit which we reached almost before we knew it was at hand. The ghostly shapes of the buildings on top were welcome sights after a four hours' climb. Just before reaching the top we came upon one of the crosses, melancholy affairs which mark the spots where climbers

CRICKET

Last Saturday afternoon teams picked from the employees of the Smith & Dove Manufacturing Company and the Tyer Rubber Company, met on the crease of the Andover Cricket club and played a very interesting game. There was quite a large attendance and the rivalry was very keen. Both sides contained members of the local club, Captain Bruce of the Smith & Dove team proving the stumbling block in the path of the Rubberites. His bowling and batting was the feature of the match.

Captain Rhodes of the Tyer Rubberites, gave a marvelous exhibition of bowling, taking four wickets with consecutive balls. He had in all 11 for 23. Callahan took 5 for 8 and Barrett 3 for 14. For S. & D., Bruce had 13 for 13 runs and Anderson 6 for 25. The latter also fielded well, taking no less than five catches.

With such strong bowling the batting was weak, Bruce and W. Black for the winners and Mander and W. Barrett for the losers being the only ones to do any hitting.

The game was thoroughly enjoyed and another match will in all likelihood be played.

FOR TWO TRACKS ON SOUTH BROADWAY.

Superintendent David Bruce of the local division of the Boston and Northern street railway has presented to Cornelius J. Corcoran, city clerk, another petition for double tracks, with a request that a hearing be given the road and any possible remonstrants at the earliest possible time. The petition will be presented at a meeting of the Board of Aldermen on September 4 and at that time a date for a hearing will be set.

The petition is for double tracks on South Broadway and Broadway, and across the Falls bridge. If this is granted it will be the first and most important step in establishing a double track system from this city to Boston. Double tracks are greatly needed on South Broadway and it is likely that no strenuous opposition will be made to the granting of the petition.

The petition follows:

To the Honorable the Mayor and Board of Aldermen of the City of Lawrence:

Respectfully represents your petitioners, the Boston and Northern Street Railway company, a corporation established and existing under the laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, that in order that it may improve the service on its Andover line, so called, it desires an extension of its location in certain streets in said Lawrence as hereinafter set forth; and that public convenience and necessity require such extension. Wherefore your petitioner respectfully asks permission to relocate its tracks, and to construct, lay, maintain and use tracks as follows, viz: Beginning at a point in Broadway between Water street and Essex street at the junction of the single tracks of your petitioner with its double track, to relocate its existing track through Broadway, across the Broadway bridge and through South Broadway to the line between the said City of Lawrence and the town of Andover, and to lay additional tracks through said streets and across said bridge parallel with said first track so that said tracks shall be equi-distant from the centre of the roadway; together with such switches, curves and cross connections as may be necessary or convenient for the operation of the cars of said company; and to erect, place, maintain and use such poles wire place, maintain and use such poles, wires and other appliances as are usual and necessary in the overhead trolley system of street car propulsion and to propel cars by such system over the said tracks with electricity as the motive power, or to use such other motive power as the laws of this Commonwealth permit, and the Board of Aldermen from time to time approve; and to make such underground and surface alterations in the ways through which this location is granted, as may be necessary.

Boston and Northern Street Railway Company,

By F. F. SULLIVAN.

PURE WATER FOR CANOBIE LAKE

CONCORD, N. H., Aug. 25—A hearing was given today by the state board of health on the petition of the Salem water works for the establishment of regulations for the protection of the water of Canobie lake.

Salem takes its water from the lake and the buildings in the park are supplied from the same source. There are a great many private cottages there and it is feared that these may be sources of contamination.

An analysis of the water was made recently by the state chemist and this, presented at the meeting, showed the necessity of action if the purity of the water is to be preserved.

As a result of the hearing the state board will take the matter in charge and will issue such regulations as may be necessary.

DEATH STATISTICS.

The number of deaths reported to the Board of Health for the week ending Saturday, Aug. 22, 1903 was 22. Of these eight were over 50 years of age, and 11 were under five. STREET RAILWAY HEARING.

A hearing in regard to the petition of the Boston and Northern street railway for double tracks on South Union street was held at the city hall in the aldermanic chamber Monday morning. The petition was for the privilege of laying double tracks on So. Union street from Merrimack street to Market street. This will greatly convenience traffic on the Salem and Belt Line lines. The double tracks will be over the new South Union street bridge.

At the time of convening all the aldermen were present with the exception of Alderman Parthum. Mayor Grant presided.

The Lawrence Gas company asked for a relocation of poles in ward five, and it was granted with no remonstrants.

The petition of the Boston and Northern was read to the board. The road asked to construct tracks and relocate tracks on South Union street from a point midway between the Duck bridge and Merrimack street to a point some hundred feet south of Market street. The road intends to lay double tracks with the usual appliances, overhead wires, poles, switches, etc.

David Bruce, superintendent of the local division of the Boston and Northern, appeared for the road and explained the wishes of the company. He produced a map showing what was required to facilitate the traffic on the Salem and Belt Line routes. The construction will be first class and the space between both outside rails will be paved.

The petition was granted with an unanimous vote. Alderman Cusack motioned that the petition be granted and the hearing closed.

ONE OF POSTMASTER PAYNE'S STORIES

Postmaster-General Payne was describing an old-time Milwaukee judge who had been noted for his kind heart.

"I attended one day," said Mr. Payne, a session of the court at which this judge presided. The court crier was a very old man; he had served with fidelity for many years, but age was beginning now to tell on him. He fell asleep while I was in the courtroom, and in a little while he was snoring.

"His snores of course disturbed the proceedings of the court. The judge displayed great tact in interrupting them without embarrassing the crier.

"'Crier Jones!' he said in a loud voice. 'Crier Jones, someone is snoring.'

"The crier awakened. He started to his feet.

"'Silence,' he exclaimed. 'There must be no snoring in the courtroom, and he glared ferociously about him."

All of our gingham remnants marked down to 12 1-2 cents. Special value at Farr's Remnant Store, 9 Lawrence street, Lawrence.

METHUEN.

Carleton P. Foss is on a business trip in Western Massachusetts and Connecticut.

Mr. and Mrs. William White of Union street are at Salisbury beach for two weeks.

Misses Cecelia Healey and Annie Skerrett have returned from a week's stay at Canoble lake.

Mrs. S. B. Davis of Peabody is spending a short time at the residence of A. W. Hutchinson, Stevens street.

Miss Bertha Douglas of Broadway has returned from a stay at Hanson, at the residence of A. L. Dame.

Dr. and Mrs. James F. Robertson of Philadelphia, Pa., were the guests of Mrs. Amelia Merrill on Broadway the first of the week.

The wedding of Arthur L. Bailey of Albany, N. Y., and Miss Dobbin of Fairport, N. Y., will take place at Fairport, on Thursday September 3rd.

Miss Susie R. Bell of Stoneham and Miss Ina Simonds of Somerville are visiting at the residence of D. C. Rollins on Union street. The young ladies are relatives of Mr. Rollins.

A party comprising Mr. and Mrs. George H. Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Klemke, Mr. and Mrs. Varnum C. Sanborn, and Mr. and Mrs. Rhodes are spending a few weeks at a cottage on the shores of Canoble lake.

The summer outing of Samuel Adams chapter, D. A. R. will take place Tuesday, Sept. 1. Special electric cars leave Central square for Boston at 7.30, arriving at the subway station, Scollay square, Boston, about 10 o'clock. The party will leave the South Station via train for Dedham at 11.15. All the members desuring to attend the outing are requested to meet at the residence of Mrs. Barnes, Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock, when the details of the trip will be made known, together with the expense.

Saturday night the police were called to the home of Gustav Unger on Boylston street in the east part of the town, complaint having been made by that man's wife that he was abusing her son. Upon arrival of the police however, the man was not to be found, and although they waited some time at the house they were unable to get him. A warrant has been sworn out charging him with assault upon his wife's son by a former marriage. Unger but a week ago was released from jail where he was committed for a month for alleged assault upon his wife.

One of John Q. Hill's ice wagons became stuck in the road near the corner of Barker street and Lowell street, and the services of the steam roller were necessary to pull it out. The wagon was being hauled along the street when one of the wheels suddenly sunk into the earth up to the hub. Investigation showed that it was in the trench recently dug for the drain pipe, which had been filled in, but had evidently been undermined again by the washing away of the earth a short distance under ground. The heavy wheel had broken through the top crust. The steam roller was brought into service and by its aid the wagon was pulled out. During the time the cart was stuck the electrics were unable to run to the end of the line.

The Methuen Cricket club will hold their first field day on their grounds, Barker street, Methuen, next Saturday. A fine list of sports have been arranged for both members and the ladies. A cricket game has been arranged between the first and second teams, which is causing quite a little interest among the members. The first have let the second have D. Hamer to captain their eleven, and C. Butterfield to get the runs for them, and E. Higton has gone with the second, thinking they will let him do the bowling. F. Hoyle will look after the interests of the second team and J. Bilney that of the first. All members are invited to be present and bring the ladies. The following players will represent the elevens: First team—W. Hamer, J. Earnshaw, T. Hodgson, G. Boocock, G. Hodgson, J. Tetley, H. Ankers, J. Wade, J. Hamer, W. Briggs, W. Marsden, resvere, A. Polgrun, 2nd team—D. Hamer, E. Higton, C. Butterfield, J. Bott, T. Littleson, A. Polgreen, W. Teal, W. Nutton, C. Hamer, J. Briggs, J. Crompton, reserves, H. Clough and H. Marshall.

LAWN PARTY HELD.

A pretty and successful lawn party was held Monday night at the home of B. A. Robinson on Orchard street. The affair was under the auspices of the Prohibition Alliance of Lawrence, and was in the nature of an outdoors cottage meeting. About 150 people were present, representing this town, the Andovers, Lawrence and Methuen.

The lawn was prettily lighted with Japanese and Chinese lanterns, and the refreshment booth was prettily decorated. During the evening the host and hostess served refreshments.

The feature of the evening's entertainment was a concert, the program of which was as follows: Recitation, 'Stop and Think," by four boys; recitation, "Forward, March," Edwin Perry; chorus singing of prohibition songs; recitation, "Little Temperance Boy," Master Perry; duet, "The Little Bow of Blue," Misses Helen Blood and Genie Smith; songs, W. A. Drake; duet, Misses Blood and Smith; reading, Mrs. Foss of North Andover; harmonica solo, Fred Gough; cornet duet, Mr. and Mrs. Foss.

A delightful evening was enjoyed by all who attended.

NOT OVER-WISE.

There is an old allegorical picture of a girl scared at a grass-hopper, but in the act of heedlessly treading on a snake. This is paralleled by the man who spends a large sum of money building a cyclone cellar, but neglects to provide his family with a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as a safeguard against bowel complaints, whose victims outnumber those of the cyclone a hundred to one. This remedy is everywhere recognized as the most prompt and reliable medicine in use for these diseases. For sale by E. M. & W. A. Allen.

WORK STARTED ON THE NEW BRIDGE.

Wednesday work was commenced on the South Union street bridge by the contractors, John Ross & Son of Boston. The matter of building a new bridge to replace the ramshackle structure of the last 40 years has been under consideration for many years. In 1897, John Godin, a South Lawrence city father, presented an order asking for a new bridge. The project has gradually advanced until finally everything is in readiness to build the bridge.

The preliminary work has been completed and the surveying and laying out has been done. The work of excavation will be started in the morning and within a few weeks a substantial bridge will have been finished. The bridge will be considerably wider than the present one and will allow for a sidewalk on either side and the double tracks which the Boston & Northern proposes to lay. Beneath the bridge the Boston & Maine will run two more tracks than now, making four in all. This will add greatly to the value of the South Lawrence freight yard, now considered one of the best

During the construction of the bridge traffic will be interrupted on the belt line and Salem lines of the Boston & Northern, but the interruption will not be serious. A footpath has been established for people from Merrimack street to Market street east of the present thoroughfare and only a short walk will be necessitated. Men will be stationed by the Boston & Maine at a point where the footpath crosses its rails. Passengers on the Boston & Northern cars will transfer at Merrimack street to cars at Market street. The belt line cars will run both ways.

The street over the hill will be nearly twice as wide as now and will be a great improvement over its present state. The grade of the hill will be changed but not appreciably.

JOHN MORRIS DEAD.

Saturday afternoon John Morris, one of the oldest and most respected residents of the "across the Spicket" section, died at his late residence, 1 Bunkerhill street, aged 76 years. Deceased had been ailing for some time. The cause of death was a combination of diseases. Mr. Morris was a carpenter by trade and worked for 30 years at the Pacific mills. He leaves a large number of friends who will miss him very much. He is survived by four sons, Captain Frank Morris of Engine 8's company, William J. Morris, the well known blacksmith; George Morris of Fort Preble of the United States army, and John Morris. He also leaves two daughters, Mrs. D. R. Emerson of Bradford street, and Miss Mary V. Morris, a clerk for Byron Truell company. The funeral will take place at the Immaculate Conception church at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning. Interment will be in the Immaculate Conception cemetery. No flowers.

METHUEN'S TAX RATE IS RAISED.

The Methuen tax rate has been announced, and is $17.50 per thousand. This is a gain of $1.10 a thousand over last year, when the rate was $16.40.

This increase is due for the most part to the heavy increase in the state and county tax for the year, which together were enough higher than the year previous to cause an increase of about $1 in the rate. The valuation figures show a falling off in personal property, and an increase in real property. The figures, as compared with last year are:

Real estate in 1902,	$4,002,630
Real estate in 1903,	$4,091,640
Increase,	$89,010
Personal property in 1902,	$909,787
Personal property in 1903,	$45,260
Decrease,	$64,527

The appropriations this year were slightly more than last.

OPERA HOUSE OPENING.

The Lawrence opera house is now being put in condition for its opening which take place next Monday when the Aubrey Stock company will make the initial appearance. This company will stay four days and on Saturday night of next week the performance of Superba will be presented.

The interior of the playhouse is being cleaned and the aisles recarpeted. A fine series of shows have been booked for the season, a list of which will soon be announced.

Difficult Digestion

That is dyspepsia.
It makes life miserable.
Its sufferers eat not because they want to, —but simply because they must.
They know they are irritable and fretful; but they cannot be otherwise.
They complain of a bad taste in the mouth, a tenderness at the pit of the stomach, an uneasy feeling of puffy fulness, headache, heartburn and what not.
The effectual remedy, proved by permanent cures of thousands of severe cases, is

GENERAL MILES ON CONSCRIPTION SWINDLES

General Nelson A. Miles was talking about some of the phases of the Civil war.

"One phase," he said, "was the frantic effort that some citizens made to avoid the conscriptions. Hence many swindles ensued, for the man with a plan to defeat the conscriptions could get money much more easily than can the man today who has a sure tip on the races.

"There was one conscription fakir who made thousands of dollars before the authorities restrained him. This chap would send letters broadcast wherein he said that he would communicate, for two dollars, a sure means of escaping the conscription. Letters, inclosing $2 notes, poured in on him, and in reply to each letter he would send a printed slip reading:

"Join the nearest volunteer regiment."

KNOW MI-O-NA WILL DO GOOD

E. M. & W. A. Allen Have Such Faith in This Remarkable Flesh-forming Food that They Sell it under Guarantee.

It is an unusual thing for a druggist to sell a medicine under a guarantee to refund the money if it does not give satisfaction, yet this is the way E. M. & W. A. Allen, whose word is as good as their bond, are selling Mi-o-na, the remarkable flesh-forming food and cure for dyspepsia.

Never before have they had so large a number of customers tell them that a medicine has cured, as since they began selling Mi-o-na.

There is no longer any need of anyone's suffering or making their friends suffer because of stomach trouble or distressing thinness.

Mi-o-na can be relied upon to regulate and strengthen the digestive organs and to build up good, solid, beautiful flesh.

E. M. & W. A. Allen take all the risk by selling this preparation under a guarantee to return the money if it does not give satisfaction. They will sign an agreement to this effect, and take your word as to whether Mi-o-na cures or not.

Headaches, all forms of indigestion, specks before the eyes, all forms of liver troubles, emaciation, and general run-down conditions are cured by Mi-o-na. A few days' treatment shows a considerable gain in health, and a cure speedily follows.

Now is the best time in the whole year for the enjoyment of good health. Use Mi-o-na and you will soon be in such perfect condition that you can enjoy every minute.

Work is nearly completed at Railroad square where the contractors for the Boston & Northern street railway have been putting in an improved system of drainage and having been raising their tracks to a higher level. The street at this point is being macadimized and a road roller has been at work at this point for some time past. It is evidently a first class job and is a decided improvement upon the way the railroad left the square last fall.

Letter to Buxton & May.

Andover, Mass.

Dear Sirs: You naturally want to make your own and your customer's money go as far as possible. So, in the general interest, we tell you why fewer gallons of Devoe Lead and Zinc will paint a house than mixed paints.

Let's suppose you are using lead and oil. Instead of lead and oil you put in four-fifths whiting, lime, water and other stuff that doesn't paint at all. Put that against a gallon of lead and oil, and what will it do? One-fifth as much.

How much of your labor is wasted? Four-fifths. How good a job will it make? No comparison. How much good will it do you in your business to turn out such a job?

And so on.

Devoe Lead and Zinc paints a house with fewer gallons than mixed paints, and wears twice as long as lead and oil.

Yours truly,

F. W. DEVOE & CO.

22 New York.

THE WRIGHT OBSEQUIES.

The funeral of the late Elijah Wright who passed away on Monday, after a long illness was held Wednesday at 2 o'clock from the home, 77 Elm street, North Andover. A gathering of many friends and relatives were present at the services which were very impressive. The Rev. Henry E. Barnes of the Congregational church officiated. At the noon hour before the time set for the services many of the employes at the Davis and Furber machine shops who knew and respected the deceased, passed into the home one after another, taking a last look at the kindly features of the departed.

The remains lay in a casket of black broadcloth with heavy silver trimmings. The plate was very simply inscribed with the name and date of birth and death.

The earers of the pall were: Eben B. Downing, Horace F. Downing, Leverett C. Downing of Kingston, N. H., and William Wright of Worcester, Mass. The interment was made in Ridgewood cemetery.

The bier was surrounded and partly hidden by the numerous floral tributes of great beauty, received from relatives, neighbors and friends. They may be enumerated as follows: Pillow, inscribed "Husband" from the widow; mound with "Father" from Mr. and Mrs. George L. Wright; anchor and mound received from brothers and sisters; sickle and crescent on base from the Davis and Furber Machine company; basket from Mr. and Mrs. John McCaffrey of Lawrence; spray of asters from Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Cobb of Andover; spray of asters from Mr. and Mrs. L. O. have perished from cold and exposure. The one passed by us was only a few steps from shelter on the top, but here perished Omsby, one of two experienced mountain climbers, who were caught in the storm of June 30, 1900. The other, William B. Curtis of New York, at the time, leading all-round amateur athlete of America, gave out a mile or so from the Summit House but his companion, although injured from falls, kept on in the storm, in order to secure assistance. He was found within calling distance of the top, his fingers worn to the bone by his heroic battle against the elements. Part of the distance he had been obliged to crawl and drag himself along by main strength.

It had been our intention to go down the mountain on the same day, over the Crawford Bridle path, but a rain which began soon after our arrival, the strong wind, the weariness of the older members of the party, as well as the fact that we had had no view from the top, decided us to remain over night at the Summit House.

The time passed pleasantly in the inspection of the various buildings, visiting the "Among the Clouds" office, writing letters, and so forth. The arrival of the afternoon train, bringing up 15 guests, was an incident of interest, and supper was another one to our hungry party whose appetites were well sharpened by this time. After supper we got a little view just at dusk as the clouds rolled up a bit. We saw the peaks rising around us like heavy billows in the ocean, and down in the Conways, at Jackson, the Glen and at Fabyans, lights twinkled at farmhouse or hotel.

Retiring early, we were informed that we would be awakened at sunrise should the weather be favorable. Each bed was well prepared for cold weather, such as is usually encountered on top of the mountain, having a full complement of five or six heavy blankets. We didn't need them, however, as the glass only registered about 45 degrees at 6 a. m. Sunday. Our hopes for a pleasant day were dashed as we opened our eyes at an early hour; fog and rain, rain and fog, was all that could be seen.

Breakfast was served early and soon the train went down the mountain, disappearing in an instant, swallowed up in the fog. The fare on the train is $4 for the round trip or one way it makes no difference which. At the hotel one pays $3.50 for supper, lodging and breakfast.

At 9 o'clock we bade adieu to some pleasant acquaintances made on top and, girding our loins, prepared to brave the elements on our eight and a half mile tramp to Crawford's. First, our precarious path was down over the steep, slippery slope of the Cone to Mount Monroe. Passing along the top of this mountain our view would have been magnificent if the fog and rain had ben absent. Next we passed over Franklin, skirted the top of Pleasant and finally entered the woods on Mount Clinton. Our journey was beguiled by a succession of showers and in the last five miles our walking was done mainly in a brook, while the water-ladened shrubs and bushes slapped at us as we passed.

At last, shortly before one o'clock, we emerged at the intervale, near the Crawford house, and made for the depot, and a little candy store close by where we appeased our hunger somewhat by means of crackers, sweet chocolate and Zu-Zus. Then we made shift to dry off a little by the fire in the ticket agent's office while we waited for the train to take us through the Crawford Notch and down to Glen station where the carriage met us. Eventually we arrived back at the Eagle Mountain house, not entirely dry, but happy and positive, that, on the whole, our trip had been a success.
